The River Ouse, which divides Bedfordshire almost in two parts, pursues a winding course across the county, so wandering in its track that it runs over eighty miles to traverse a stretch of country only eighteen miles in length. It is a peaceful, slow stream, affording good boating and fishing, and is nominally navigable from Bedford to the Wash.

No Chicks, this time. Received your letter alright. I found all well. I will write more soon. Am in from Boston 384 Elm Ave Mt Pleasant Brooklyn N.Y.
